

I oppose the increase to the General Services Tax because this will mean the cost of goods and services will increase.

As a pensioner my costs have risen in rents and groceries.

A GST increase will cause inflation and the business sector will pass their GST costs to the consumer.

Fixed income Australians will be hard hit by this as well as low income earners.

The Albanese government is opposed to the increase in GST.

Individuals and big business and big income earners who use the taxation act to cut their taxes want all Australians to pay more GST so they can have tax cuts.

The distribution of GST should be that GST collected in states should go to the states where they are collected from and government should commit funding to smaller states to compensate them.

Governments are spending too much money and need to expand the taxation system to collect the taxes to cover expenditure.

Australians have a cost of living crisis and are going without food and visits to doctors and go without treatment such as cancer etc.

Australians are getting poorer and poorer and more and more are renting and young people can no longer afford a house.

I and Australians cannot afford an increase in GST and the Productivity Commission should reject increasing it.
