Dear Ms Wood

Thank you for your email of 30 July 2026 to the Department of State Development, Infrastructure and Planning about the Productivity Commission (PC) Inquiry into housing supply regulation (the Inquiry). I acknowledge the PC released its interim report on 27 July 2026, and requested information from jurisdictions outlining housing reforms, implemented and proposed, to inform the PC final report, which is anticipated in March 2027.

Please find enclosed a response to your request for information on housing reforms implemented in Queensland since the Crisafulli Government commenced its term in October 2024.

The Crisafulli Government is very pleased to take this opportunity to demonstrate the comprehensive set of reforms implemented to accelerate and drive housing supply in Queensland, including those detailed in the Government's A Place to Call Home Plan which outlines a commitment to deliver one million homes by 2044 including 53,500 social and community homes.

This response is not presented as a formal Queensland Government submission in response to the release of the interim report, but as an overview of the housing reforms underway and producing results in Queensland.

The interim report findings align strongly with the findings of the final report, released by the Queensland Productivity Commission, following its Inquiry into opportunities to improve the construction's sector productivity, including:

- land-use planning reform
- zoning liberalisation
- development assessment reform
- infrastructure coordination
- housing density and diversity
- regulatory accountability and performance measurement.

The Crisafulli Government is committed to ensuring every Queenslander has access to a safe and secure place to call home and looks forward to working with the Australian Government to deliver a long-term plan to improve housing outcomes in Queensland.

I have asked Ms Judith Rowell, Executive Director, Strategic Policy and Insights in the Department of State Development, Infrastructure and Planning to assist you with any further queries. You may wish to contact Ms Rowell on [Redacted] or by email at [Redacted].

Yours sincerely

JARROD BLEIJIE MP
DEPUTY PREMIER

Minister for State Development, Infrastructure and Planning
Minister for Industrial Relations
