

Dear Productivity Commission,

I am unemployed and my family has a mortgage on investment property

My partner worked at Monroe and I am glad he is not still there because they depend on the auto industry.

Manufacturing in Australia will decline. The incentive to buy Holden vehicles will decline as in buying Australian. Other after market parts places and associated manufacturing industries will suffer. The skills, Tooling and investment will never be recaptured or the talent pool created in the development of new vehicles. We will always be consumers as when the textile industry was completely decimated.

This is worth my vote and makes more sense than you could imagine

Kind Regards,
Lesley Rutherford
