

I buy Australian books because I know that Australian publishing houses have invested their time and money to produce books that are of the highest quality, written by the best Australian writers, illustrated by our top Australian illustrators with topics relevant to Australians and sold at reasonable prices that represent the considerable effort put in to produce each title.

It is hard enough as it is for new Australian authors and illustrators to be published, as only the best are chosen.

The influx of cheap, inferior quality, overseas titles will not only destroy our Australian book industry but will make it impossible for talented Australians to be published and put many more Australians out of work, unable to buy any books, even cheap ones!

I support Australians for Australian books.

Save the Australian book industry and retain full Australian territorial copyright for books.
