

Hello,

I wish to voice my concern regarding the recommendations that appeared in this weekend's press regarding the publishing industry in Australia.

My concern is that even more “Americanisms” will appear in our books. This is already happening with poor reference to Australian spelling. If we wish to hold on to our way of writing, we must avoid the rush of imports that may occur should new rules come in to play.

Thank for your time,
Lilian Wasik

26 April 2009