

Hello,

I would be grateful if you could pass my concern on to the relevant person or committee.

My big concern as a retired teacher is the foreign spelling that will be used in books. The USA for instance uses very different spelling from Australia. I found it difficult to read the newspaper for quite some time after moving there in 2001. I know that some books have different titles in different countries as well. E.g. "Where's Wally" / "Where's Waldo".

Will foreign books be printed for our Australian Market or be published in the particular exporting country's style?

Thank you,
Lilian Wasik
