

Equity in the Disability Discrimination Act

“Equitable Maxims” are:

1. Equity acts on conscience
2. Equity like nature, does nothing in vain
3. Equity delights in equality

Currently the DDA does not show a semblance of equity for the disabled as it does not appeal to the equity of the able bodies nor do the able bodies want to remedy the gap in the DDA for the benefit of the disabled.

Melville Miranda
Victoria

Date: 29-5-03